

GETTING COMFY AT CASS COUNTY DENTAL CLINIC

Madalyn Phillips knows how to make herself at home. She arrived at Cass County Dental Clinic with a bright blanket and fluffy stuffed animal, bringing both with her as she settled into the dentist's chair.

"The environment makes them comfortable. Everyone there is amazing in the way they talk to and treat the kids. They're always playing along," Madalyn's mom, Maegan, said.

Maegan's three children are all treated at Cass County Dental Clinic. She began scheduling appointments at the Belton clinic six years ago when she found that no one would treat her son Brier.

Now, all three kids, Landon, Brier and Madalyn, make regular appointments at the Harrisonville clinic and look forward to the days Cass Community Health Foundation and the clinic visit their schools.

"Madalyn was so excited to get a new, pink toothbrush. She came home and said, 'I need to brush my teeth right now. They said to do it before bed and I don't want to forget.'"

Cass Community Health Foundation and its clinics have made going to the dentist a fun, warm experience. Along with thousands of other children in Cass County, the Phillips have found a home at Cass County Dental Clinic.
